FROM THE PRINCIPAL'S DESK

Dear Applicant,

I welcome you as a prospective member of Zakir Husain Delhi College (Evening) fraternity. With its humble beginnings in an 18th century Madrasa, it is the oldest college of Delhi, having witnessed a lot of contemporary Indian history. The college was formally affiliated to Delhi University in 1924. The Evening College started in 1958. The college was renamed after the former President of India, Dr. Zakir Husain in 1975 and shifted to its present location in the early 1990's. In order to maintain the link between the illustrious history of the college and its present, the college Trust unanimously resolved to rename the college as Zakir Husain Delhi College in July 2010. With such a long and illustrious history, the college also has a long list of distinguished alumni, with the likes of Mirza Ghalib, Bhism Sahani, Ravi Chaturvedi, Tejinder Sharma (MBE) among the list of students who have passed through the portals of this college.

Today, Zakir Husain Delhi College (Evening) has an impressive campus with infrastructure to match other constituent colleges of the University of Delhi. A new nine-storey building is now almost ready, with more spacious classrooms, amphitheatre, courts and playgrounds. It should be inaugurated any time in the near future.

The college has 14 departments, which offer courses in various undergraduate disciplines. Students come to us from every nook and corner of the country, after having qualified the CUET exam and having chosen the college among their choices. The college aims to provide a 360 degree holistic education to all students. This wide variety of students adds tremendous value both inside and outside the classroom, as students learn, not just from their teachers, but also their peers. The college has professionally qualified and academically devoted teachers, who have made a name for themselves nationally and internationally. Through their presence in various committees and societies which organize co-curricular and extra-curricular activities, they play a crucial role in grooming the personality of our students. Each department has its departmental society, which organizes talks and other events. Our students have excelled, not only in academics, but also in sports, arts and culture and in several other fields. Each student is assigned a teacher who acts as a mentor/counsellor. They are encouraged to share her/his concerns – academic or non-academic, with the mentor. Ours is an equal-opportunities

College that promises gender equality. The Internal Complaints Committee acts swiftly and impartially on any complaint received. We have zero tolerance for ragging and sexual harassment. Closed Circuit TVs are installed at several places in the college premises to ensure overall safety and security. The North East cell has been specially set up for our students from the region, with a teacher mentor for the same. The Placement Committee works towards organizing various camps for the students to enable them to find suitable employment. Committees like Film and Photography Society, Debating Society, Arts and Culture Society among others enable students to develop their co-curricular skills. We have a vibrant Eco Club that sensitizes students towards the need to preserve the environment. The college offers scholarships and financial assistance on the basis of merit and need, to students from disadvantaged categories. Eligible students need to submit the required documents when asked to do so by the authorities, and each case will be considered by the Committee.

All admitted students are required to attend an Orientation before the commencement of regular classes. This programme provides an audio-visual insight into the functioning of the college to make the 'freshers' feel at home in their new environment. All admitted students should follow the college website regularly for details of the programme and also for all important notices and information regarding the college. As the Principal, I invite all the students of Zakir Husain Delhi College (Evening) to share their problems or discuss any issues with me through email at principal@zhe.du.ac.in. I am confident that with your cooperation and participation, we will make the learning process a stimulating experience.

Please read the Prospectus carefully. Ignorance of the rules will not be accepted as an excuse.

1897 – 1969

Dr. Zakir Husain, after whom this college is named was the President of India from 1967-1969. He obtained M.A. from Aligarh Muslim University, and did his Ph.D. in Economics from the University of Berlin.

At the young age of 23, Dr. Zakir Husain, as a leader of a young group of students, founded the National Muslim University in Aligarh in 1920, which later shifted its base to Jamia Nagar in Delhi, now named Jamia Millia Islamia.

The chief motive of Dr. Zakir Husain was to use education as the chief tool to help India during the period of freedom struggle against the British. He remained the Vice Chancellor of Jamia Millia Islamia for 22 years in 1948; he was appointed the Vice Chancellor of Aligarh Muslim University.

Dr. Zakir Husain chaired the committee to formulate the scheme of basic education following the Wardha Educational Conference in 1937.

An educator and intellectual, Dr. Zakir Husain served as the Governor of Bihar, Vice President of India and later as the President of India. He was awarded Bharat Ratna, India's highest national honour, in 1963.

HERITAGE, PAST AND RECENT

Zakir Husain Delhi College can justly claim to be the oldest college in Delhi. The origin of college dates to 1780 when Ghaziuddin Khan established a madrasa near a mosque outside Shahjahan Abad's Ajmeri Darwaja (Gate). Gradually, by 1825, this humble abode of learning had developed into Delhi College, popularly known ever since as 'Dilli College'. Called variously as Ghazi-ud- Din Madrasa, or Anglo-Arabic School, or Delhi College, or Zakir Husain College, the building served both as a school and a college.

This building was one of the centers of the Delhi Renaissance during the 1830s-1840s. However, by the middle of 19th century due to political turmoil and the Great Uprising of 1857, it was shut down. When reopened, its location was Kashmiri Gate. In 1877, Delhi College was merged with the Government College of Lahore by which time it had returned to its original moorings at Ajmeri Gate.

Built in the Indo-Saracenic style, this complex is architecturally rich in design having all the desired elements and components of a madrasa that is, a mosque, maktab (elementary school), a library and a double-tier of hujras (accommodation) for the students. It is a rare specimen of the traditional Mughal School which has been used in many ways but the cardinal use has always been educational.

The partition of the country in 1947 jolted the college. But after the temporary closure, the institution arose phoenix-like from its ashes, due to the remarkable efforts of Mirza Mahmood Begg, a philanthropist in the field of education. His dedication to the revival of Delhi College, with the co-operation of old and new faculty, and patrons, led to a new phase in the history of this college. From the modest beginning in 1947 with 200 students, the number of students swelled to 1000 in a short time, drawn by the new disciplines taught. Such was its reputation that under Begg Sahib's stewardship an idea to hold evening classes was mooted – to enable employed youth to continue their higher studies. Thus, was born Delhi College (Evening) in 1958. Soon, it began to cater to a wide variety of students. Delhi College was rechristened as Zakir Husain Delhi College in 1975 after being taken over by the Zakir Husain Memorial Trust. Besides adding new disciplines in keeping with modern education, women members were also added to the faculty. The college has been a pioneer of sorts in the higher education of young women. Eighteen odd years ago, the governing body decided to admit girls, and ever since, our college has been co-educational.

In 1985, the college acquired its own present building on Jawaharlal Nehru Marg. The proximity of the college to non-elite neighbourhoods encourages parents to send their daughters to the Evening College. These young women, as they pass out, become the first generation of women from tradition-bound families, to join the formal workforce. This is a matter of great satisfaction to us.

Zakir Husain Delhi College (Evening) is a premier and one of the most renowned institutions of the University of Delhi. The college is not only meticulous in applying creative pedagogical methods but it also retains the ethics and values rooted in its heritage. The teaching and non-teaching staff work in cooperation and harmony with each other to provide an amiable and cordial atmosphere. Apart from a deep knowledge of their respective subjects, students are taught to be disciplined, benevolent, and above all, humanitarian. One of the main objectives of the college, therefore, along with imparting knowledge, is that of building its students' character.

It is centrally located, symbolically at the threshold of the old city and the new. The Premises of the College are enriched with plush lawns, trees, plants and shrubs and herbs. It has been fortunate in having a distinguished, a highly qualified, dynamic faculty that is actively involved in academic and research activities, both within the college and at the University level. Many of our teachers have been actively involved in designing pedagogy, curriculum, conducting research activities, guiding students, and conducting workshops, seminars, and conference both at national and international level. They have been members in nationally and internationally acclaimed bodies.

The college offers Honours courses in English, Hindi, History, Persian, Political Science, Sanskrit, Urdu and Commerce at UG level and Hindi, Philosophy, Political Science at PG level. The annually published College prospectus gives all relevant and updated information to admission seekers as well as their guardians. There is a methodical admission procedure as per university prescribed guidelines that ensures that admissions are conducted smoothly. A team of able counsellors guide each student through the various stages of admission.
